Detailed Action

1. This is in response to Application filed 06/27/05.
2. Claims 1 – 22 have been examined.

Claim Rejections - 35 USC § 101

3. 35 U.S.C. 101 reads as follows:

Whoever invents or discovers any new and useful process, machine, manufacture, or composition of matter, or any new and useful improvement thereof, may obtain a patent therefor, subject to the conditions and requirements of this title.

Claims 10 – 22 are rejected under 35 U.S.C. 101 because the claimed invention is directed to non-statutory subject matter. Claim language draws limitations to software per se type components. Software per se type elements are not considered statutory subject matter as they do not include the necessary associated hardware to enable it's functionality to be realized.

Claim Rejections - 35 USC § 102

4. The following is a quotation of the appropriate paragraphs of 35 U.S.C. 102 that form the basis for the rejections under this section made in this Office action:

A person shall be entitled to a patent unless –

(e) the invention was described in a patent granted on an application for patent by another filed in the United States before the invention thereof by the applicant for patent, or on an international application by another who has fulfilled the requirements of paragraphs (1), (2), and (4) of section 371(c) of this title before the invention thereof by the applicant for patent.

5. Claims 1 – 22 are rejected under 35 U.S.C. 102(e) as being anticipated by Jackson et al. US2002/0152305 A1.

Regarding claims 1, 10, 19 and 20 a method for estimating a quantity of a resource required during installation of a software application on a computing system [0459], comprising the steps of accessing a database containing historical resource utilisation data for installation of the software application on other computing systems[0451], selecting a value for a parameter of the computing system relevant to resource utilisation and a value for a parameter of the software application relevant to resource utilisation and using the historical resource utilisation data and the selected parameter values to estimate the quantity of the resource required for installation of the software application [0037-0038, and 0451].

Regarding claims 2 and 11, a method in accordance with claim 1, wherein the historical resource utilisation data includes parameter values of the computing systems and parameter values of the software applications historically installed [0037, see "...history repository capable of maintaining, the logged resource utilization information and being implemented on a server coupled to the system management processing engine...".

Regarding claims 5 and 14, a method in accordance with claim 3, wherein the relationship between the parameter and statistic pairs is derived by applying a statistical model to the parameter/statistic pairs [0277].

Regarding claims 6 and 15, a method in accordance with claim 4, wherein a relationship is predicted between a statistic and n distinct parameters, where n is any integer greater than or equal to two, comprising the further step of obtaining $m \cdot n$ different values for each parameter

P.sub.n, and further obtaining at least m.sub.1m.sub.2 m.sub.n values of a statistic for each distinct combination of parameter values, where m.sub.1m.sub.2 m.sub.n represents the product of values m.sub.1, m.sub.2, . . . m.sub.n [0463-0464].

Regarding claims 7 and 16, a method in accordance with claim 5, wherein the relationship between the statistic and the parameter or n parameters is determined by assuming that the relationship between the parameter/statistic pairs takes the form of a straight line [0559, sed linear].

Regarding claims 8 and 17, a method in accordance with claim 6, wherein the equation of the straight line is calculated using co-ordinate geometry [0559 - 0564, see calculate].

Regarding claims 9 and 18, a method in accordance with claim 7, wherein the mathematical model takes the form: $S = S_a + (S_c - S_a) (c - a) \cdot \text{times.} (P_k - a)$ [0559 - 0564].

Regarding claim 21, a method for building a model for use in the prediction of resources required for the installation of a software application, the method comprising the steps of collecting historical resource utilisation data of resources utilised during the installation of software applications on computing systems, and storing the historical resource usage data [0037-0038, and 0451].

Regarding claim 22, a model comprising historical resource utilisation data of resources utilised during the installation of software applications on computing systems, the data being stored in a database [0037-0038, and 0451].
